2.0 Equivalency Certificates

2.1 International Organization for Standardization (ISO) and/or Canadian Standards Association (CSA)

Employers with either ISO and/or CSA Certifications are eligible to apply to Energy Safety Canada for Certificate of Recognition (COR). To be considered for COR equivalency, the ISO or CSA certification must be issued from a designated certification body (e.g., British Standards Institution, AQC Canada Inc.) as recognized for this purpose by ISO or CSA.

The following are the number of equivalency certificates issues with COR:

| ISO/CSA            | Count    |
|--------------------|----------|
| ISO                | 6        |
| CSA                | 0        |

PARTNERSHIP INJURY REDUCTION (PIR)

The benefits of the PIR program for employers are measurable. Compared with other employers, PIR participants have a 31.7 per cent lower loss ratio (claim costs versus premiums paid).

- To be eligible to receive a PIR rebate, employers must: achieve or maintain a Certificate of Recognition (provincial certification of their health and safety management system) and
- Comply with WCB and Occupational Health and Safety legislation

Employers registering in the PIR program for the first time, who have not received their COR by year end, can have their discount carried forward for 1 year and applied if the COR is complete at the end of the next year; therefore, potentially receiving 2 discounts the next year. Apply early to participate.
